

Mathematical Secrets!

65-102

About 30 minutes into the third episode of Bletchley Circle, a rather famous book makes an appearance. Its author led a very colorful and interesting life! Can you remember who the author is? If not, here's a code encrypting their name—can you break it? ZCPRPYLB PSQQCJJ [Bertrand Russell]

To learn more about this interesting person's life, work in groups to complete this crossword. You should use the internet to help!

Across

- 3 Our interesting person survived a ... crash [5].
- 5 Our interesting person was declared “morally unfit” to teach because of their book Marriage and ... [6].
- 7 Our interesting person is described as being very ... , having had many lovers [10].
- 8 Our interesting person was a ... , just like Socrates [11].
- 9 Our interesting person was dismissed from this Cambridge college because of their pacifism [7].
- 10 The title of our interesting person's 1953 book was ... in the Suburbs [5].

Down

- 1 Our interesting person had a cameo in this feature film [4].
- 2 Our interesting person died in this country [5].
- 4 Our interesting person argued that mathematics is really just logic, a view known as ... [8].
- 5 Our interesting person did not commit suicide during their adolescence because they wanted to know more ... [8].
- 6 Our interesting person features as the narrator in a ... called Logicomix [5].
- 7 Our interesting person stayed here for 6 months in 1918 and wrote a book during their visit [6].